

Abstract of the Disclosure

A cutting die head assembly for nibbler tools which enables the die head to be independently rotatably manipulated by the user's hand independent of its axial connection with the die body to provide for angular 5 and/or circular cuts in areas of limited space use and thus avoiding the necessity of moving the nibbler body and attached drill in a similar path.